

DISEASE RISK ASSESSMENT

Your Pet's Name: _____ Date: _____

Once your pet has reached 1 year old, you have an option of a 1-year Distemper vaccine or a 3-year Distemper vaccine. The manufacturer of the 1-year vaccine guarantees it to protect for 1 year and the manufacturer of the 3-year vaccine guarantees it to protect for 3 years.

When vaccinating for Distemper, which vaccine would you prefer your dog to have?

1-Year

3-Year

We recommend Distemper and Rabies vaccines for every dog and the following yearly vaccines based on your dog's exposure to disease:

1. If you take your dog to places where they have contact with other dogs (i.e.: boarding facilities, training classes, day care, groomer, dog park) we recommend the Bordetella vaccine. Bordetella is a bacterial infection which is highly contagious and causes a bronchitis commonly known as kennel cough.

Would you like your dog vaccinated for Bordetella today?

Yes

No

2. If your dog has exposure to wildlife or if you find ticks on your dog, we recommend the Lyme vaccine. Lyme disease is carried by ticks and can cause joint problems and systemic disease in dogs. This vaccine is given as an initial series of two vaccines with an annual booster.

Would you like your dog vaccinated for Lyme disease today?

Yes

No

3. If your dog spends time in or around natural waterways (lakes, streams, ponds, etc.) we recommend the Leptospirosis vaccine. Lepto is a bacterial infection found in some areas, which can cause liver and kidney disease and can be fatal in dogs. This vaccine is given as an initial series of two vaccines with an annual booster.

Would you like your dog vaccinated for Leptospirosis disease today?

Yes

No

4. Canine influenza is on the rise in the Midwest and continues to be a concern for pet health and safety. There are currently 2 strains of the influenza affecting dogs. We recommend that pets are vaccinated against both strains. We are offering a pricing bundle on the two strains and waiving the office call charge for boosters. The vaccine is given as an initial series of two vaccines with an annual booster

Would you like your dog vaccinated for Canine Influenza today?

Yes

No

Please ask the Client Services Representatives at the front desk for pricing and if you have any questions. ***